Redburn appoints Andrew Quick as Global Head of Execution Services

London, UK: Redburn, Europe's leading independent equity research and execution firm, announces the appointment of Andrew Quick as its new Global Head of Execution Services.

Andrew will manage Redburn's 36-strong execution team which operates in London, New York and Paris, and spearhead the firm's continuing expansion in both high-touch and low-touch execution. Andrew has more than two decades of experience in execution and has been Redburn's Head of Pan-European Sales Trading since 2014. He will also join the Group Management Committee.

Andrew Quick commented: "Redburn has built its equity execution business on the back of its venue-agnostic, independent positioning, its reputation for high-quality client service and effective algorithmic execution tools. These have all contributed to Redburn's strong ranking in recent investor execution surveys. We are excited by the opportunities from Redburn's recent entry into the equity capital markets business and from the firm's relationship with Rothschild & Co. which will broaden our access to unique sources of equity liquidity and increase our relevance to existing and new investor clients. As Redburn has accelerated its research coverage of US stocks, our execution footprint in US shares has continued to grow impressively and we are increasing the resources dedicated to that market".

Adam Young, Chairman of Redburn commented : 'Redburn's execution activities are a strategic driver of growth, and we are delighted that Andrew Quick has taken on this role.'
